

Drainage

The objective is to improve and enhance the drainage system and the works may involve some disruption to the carriageway.

Temporary traffic management may be used to complete these works in a timely manner and may have to remain in place until materials have hardened.

During the course of the works, barriers will be erected around excavations and will remain in place until the materials have hardened; for example the concrete surrounding drainage pipes and road gullies will need time to set.

There will be occasions when barriers remain in place overnight whilst the excavation is open and materials are hardening.

While excavations will be barriered and clearly marked, please be especially vigilant when walking or driving close to these works.
